

Until We Are All Free: A Roundtable on Global Intersectional Solidarity

Saturday,
March 3
12:00-1:00 pm

The Mosher
Alumni House's
Main Hall

Featuring

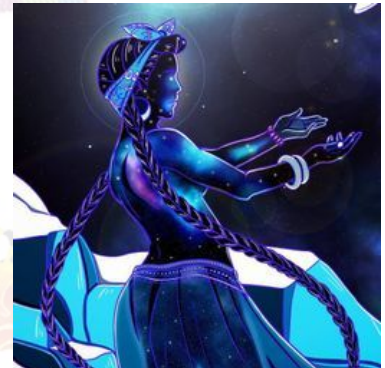

Blake Simons

Blake Simons is an educator from the Bay Area. He is the co-founder of People's Breakfast Oakland and also co-hosts Hella Black Podcast. He is also one of the founders of the Fannie Lou Hamer Black Resource Center at UC Berkeley and teaches an African-American Studies seminar at the University. Blake is also a member of American Foundation for Suicide Prevention's national Loss and Bereavement Council. Blake hopes to uphold the long tradition of Black resistance, and his end goal is the liberation of all Black lives.

La Marea

La Marea is a savage lyricist, frontline medic, youth worker, and community organizer. She makes music that braids her reality as an undocumented Xicana mujer subsisting on stolen land with the theories of rebellious decolonization. Her storytelling resounds with those on the warpath to guard the sacred.

Nancy Mansour

Nancy Mansour is a cultural artist involved with Existence is Resistance (EIR), an internationalist organization determined to promote the expression, resistance, and liberation of marginalized peoples throughout the world with a focus on connecting to the situation of occupied Palestine. Since 2012, Nancy has helped EIR film Black communities in the Holy Land.

Facilitator: Naia al-Anbar

UCSB Queer Commission and Students for Justice in Palestine

These politically engaged content creators will come together for an essential conversation about solidarity and community between the globe's oppressed peoples. All are welcome.
